

Plugg 2009: Announcing The 20 Finalists For the Plugg Start-Ups Rally

Twenty of Europe's most exciting web & mobile startups to pitch at Plugg conference

Brussels – 26 February 2009

Plugg, widely known as the conference where the top European startups, entrepreneurs, investors, pundits, trade press & bloggers annually meet up to discuss the current and future state of the Internet and mobile industry in Europe, is today announcing the twenty nominees for the event's exhilarating pitching competition, the Plugg Start-Ups Rally.

Selected from a pool of 126 European startups who have submitted their profile online, a professional jury of industry pundits and venture capital investors have picked twenty companies that will give a short presentation about their product or service. They will each get 2 minutes to pitch their startup to the Plugg audience and the select crew of jury members will subsequently select 3 finalists to present for 10 minutes after that. Two awards will be given out: one for the overall winner and one for the startup that got the most votes from the audience.

Here are the twenty startups that will present at the the Plugg conference in Brussels on the 12th of March 2009, in alphabetical order:
